Welcome

A+ Summer Leadership

We develop our summer leadership training programs around the premise that students should strive to be effective leaders who demonstrate excellence by their approach and by their accomplishment. We create the kind of leaders that, by virtue of their ability to lead and provide superior service, will prompt a teacher to write an uncommonly powerful letter of recommendation for college, or will justify having a teacher (or even their peers) consider nominating and advocating for that student for truly special awards and selective honors.

Our leadership-focused offerings have been constructed with the view that the most significant way to encourage students into earning and taking real future leadership roles is to develop the skills and capabilities that will enable students to speak up in class, solve problems creatively, and to communicate with confidence. Ultimately, we strive to have each student demonstrably improve from whatever level of ability they come with to camp – those who are strong leaders already should hone their skills and acquire new ones, and students who are just beginning to explore how they can put themselves on a leadership track should leave camp with a much clearer vision of their personal next steps with improved skills that will allow them to begin their journey.

Enthusiasm for leadership is a universal goal of most leadership programs and camps, but it is, in our view, too low an accomplishment to be one of the primary goals of a leadership program, as most students come into the program enthusiastic to assume leadership roles and ‘make a mark’. Education Unlimited’s® leadership programs go beyond promoting a general sense of enthusiasm for the idea of being a leader, and instead help students develop a sense of confidence and of perspective such that leadership is seen not as the exclusive goal in and of itself, but rather as a means to greater accomplishment in one’s life, a tool for personal empowerment, and as a springboard to provide meaningful service to one’s community.

Experiential Courses

Develop leadership skills and capabilities

High School Leadership Camp

Leadership skills are one of the most important traits that students will need to learn in order to be successful within any industry or profession, yet many of these skills are abstract and can be difficult to teach. Education Unlimited is proud to introduce a new camp that focuses on creating great leaders through three key areas of leadership development:

Knowing Yourself as a Leader

By understanding motives and personal values, students will be provided with a firm foundation to build the leadership skills that best suits their individual leadership style. Through personality and leadership self assessment tests, students will benefit from guided self-evaluation to determine the management style that best fits their leadership goals. As part of the self-assessment, we will also consider how to best communicate with other types of leaders.

Communicating with Others

Once students understand their leadership style and goals, they are then provided with the skills they will need to communicate that direction to others. Our communications studies will cover presentation skills, meeting management, and effective writing for the workplace. Each week of camp, students will:

- Give a persuasive or informative presentation
- Lead meetings with their peers
- Write proposals and communicate to others with clarity and professionalism

Practical Hands-On Experience

Learn by doing. Weekly projects will simulate the kind of routine leadership projects that successful high school leadership classes would accomplish. Each project includes budget and time management, delegation of responsibilities, and effective teamwork.

These projects may include:

- Planning and implementing an event for a large student body
- Development and implementing a marketing campaign for an upcoming event
- Arranging and completing a community service project plan with an action plan for implementation
- Developing and performing a community needs assessment, then creating a presentation of results and suggested actions

Middle School Leadership Camp

Our middle school session of A+ Summer Leadership encourages the development of leadership skills spanning the areas of communication, entrepreneurial thinking, and project planning/small team leadership. Students will rotate through multiple classes daily, and the program will culminate in a capstone leadership project which allows students to apply the skills they learn throughout the week. Communication Skills and Entrepreneurial Thinking seminars are the cornerstones of the core curriculum, and in these two courses students will learn by doing, create project plans, and work on learning to present their plan to an audience with the goal of learning how to bring a project from the idea stage to actual implementation. The Project Planning and Small Team Leadership (supplemental learning time for overnight and extended day camp students) is a workshop period where students will further explore ideas presented in their two core seminars, learn theories of leadership, have time to develop their project ideas and flesh them out, and receive personalized assistance on their projects.

Communication Skills

Our communication skills unit instills confidence and develops effective interpersonal skills through fun and interactive public speaking exercises, such as campaign speeches, student congress, and negotiations. Students will develop multiple speeches and will practice speaking in public during each day of the program. (all participants)

Entrepreneurial Thinking

Leaders need to think creatively, market their ideas, and work with limited resources. In this unit, students will develop their skills as leader-entrepreneurs through hands-on activities designed to encourage their skills as marketers and innovators. Example activities include: marketing campaign design, brainstorming methods, budgeting skills, and creative problem solving. (all participants)

Project Planning and Small Team Leadership

Project management and small team management are fundamental skills of any leader. In this unit, students learn study skills, organization techniques, and project management best practices, giving them a skill set that will help them in small group work in school and beyond. Students will also explore various leadership roles, including that of project steward, manager, coach, and more. (overnight and extended day participants)

Profiles of our outstanding instructors

Chris Waage

Chris joined the Education Unlimited headquarters team in 2011 after more than 10 years of experience in Bay Area youth program leadership. He has overseen academic camps, adventure programs, large day camps, citywide after-school programs, and youth government. As a professional development trainer he has worked with non-profits and local governments throughout California to improve the quality and operations of youth-centered program. As a leader in the recreation field and within his own community, he has impacted the work of hundreds of summer camp and recreation, professionals, and provided outstanding experiences for thousands of youths.

Amanda DeDiego

A doctoral student at the University of Tennessee, Amanda holds a Master of Science degree in Clinical Mental Health Counseling and is a Nationally Certified Counselor. She is currently working in a private practice while pursuing a PhD in Counselor Education. Her dissertation topic of choice is experiential learning and she has taught undergraduate and graduate courses in counseling skills, group communication, and service learning. Amanda is currently a graduate assistant serving as a service learning coordinator for the FUTURE program at the University of Tennessee. Amanda has many years of experience conducting team-building experiences and leadership training with youth in conjunction with conferences, camps, and schools. Amanda is excited to be returning for her second year working with Education Unlimited as an instructor for the leadership program.

Jake Wasserman

Jake has taught and directed Education Unlimited programs since 1997. During the September to May "off-season," Jake works on college readiness, career preparation, and civic development for students in the Oakland Unified School District. Jake earned his BA from UC San Diego and is currently a graduate student at Mills College, pursuing a joint MBA and Educational Leadership MA.

"This camp was an awesome experience. We learned so much about who we are as leaders and how we can impact this world!"

Thomas H., 2013 camp participant
